Influenza

Bovril Ltd. wish to express their regret at the shortage of Bovril during the recent Influenza epidemic.

The proprietors of Bouril, recognising that those who are deprived of the bodybuilding powers of Bovril may more easily fall victims to the epidemic, have done their utmost to increase the supply, but the lack of bottles has seriously hampered—and still hampers-their endeavours. Efforts are being made to collect empty bottles. and it is hoped that supplies. will soon be increased by the release of men for the bottle factories.

It is suggested that those consumers who have a stock of Bovril should avoid purchasing at present, and thus leave the available Bouril for those who have more pressing need of it at this critical time.

DVEAL BY CHEANED ON DIVISION AND THE STATES AND THE

ex-Kaiser, to which their requirement upon to the rest of Ireland, must be diverted from the Southern Provinces to Great a decision on the question of his extradicular tion and ultimate disposal, is plainly will be dislocated. Two sets of law courts institled in international law. If on no Departments of Agriculture will be larger in on and after December 2nd.

other ground, it is justified sufficiently by the fact that, with whatever political status the ex-Kaiser crossed the Dutch frontier, he crossed it in the uniform of an officer of the German Army. The duty of a neutral Government towards efficers or men of a belligerent country who cross its frontiers is a matter in regard to which international law is exact and unequivocal. It requires that all such persons shall be forthwith interned. The Dutch Government, however, has chosen to base its forthwith interned. The Dutch Government, however, has chosen to base its attitude upon the fact, or, rather, the allegation, that the ex-Kaiser has formally abdicated the Prussian and Imperial throne. It implies that such abdication carries with it reversion to civilian status; it implies also that, if he had not abdicated, it might have treated him differently. We have used the word allegation rather than fact in connection with his abdication, however, because it is more than doubtful whether it has fact, in any formal whether it has fact, in any formal whether it has fact, it has taken place in any formal whether it has fact, it has taken place in any formal whether it has fact, it has taken place in any formal whether it has fact, any of the many formal whether the properson should have been extended to Welsh Discassiblement. Incidentally, his retires ment is a sufficient answer to be convined that partition will be had for Unionists. We are glad that Sir Maurice for the rest of Ireland, and its very worst offects will be felt by the Southern Unionists of the residuation of Lord Robert Cecil. It seems should stand by the Act of Union; they must be ready to resist at every point a policy within threatens instant calamity to the progress and peace not merely of Southern Unionists, but of all Ireland. We hope that the cannot accept the Coalition policy in read to well a presentative of Southern Unionists, but of all Ireland. We hope that the cannot accept the Coalition will be for Ireland was ever submitted as a single ween conduct aiming at his restoration in opposition to the declared will of the Allied countries with which Holland is at peace. The statement that he has not during his residence in Holland gone outside the park of Amerongen Castle is singularly disingenuous. If, as the Dutch Government declares, he is not a proper subject for internment, it has not, on its own showing any title to prevent him from going anywhere in Holland he pleases. Without moving from Amerongen he can readily enough, prejudice the Allied cause. Amerongen is close to the frontier. There exists, apparently, no obstacle in the way of access to the Kaiser of any persons except in uniform—or goods from Germany. Moreover, it is freely stated in messages from Holland that he has at his disposal at Amerongen unusual privileges of telegraphic and telephonic communication. That a strong Royalist party exists in Germany is certain. Its opportunities of intrigue are increased by the fact that no crdered government has as yet been created in Germany. The central Government and the possible that the interests of Ireland had not been overlooked. Excellent candidates have been chosen to Ways and Management Mr Excellent candidates have been chosen to contest five Dublin seats in the Unions interest at the General Election. There is urgent reason for the selection of similar candidates for other seats in—and, perhaps, outside—the County and City of Dublin. In the first place, Unionists, though a minority, are not a negligible minority in the three Southern Provinces. Their candidates should have a "sporting" chance of success in many constituences where the Nationalist forces are split be where the Nationalist forces are split be. tween Dillonism and Sinn Fein. In the next place, it is almost certain that the material nterests of the Southern Provinces will Brace of colors. The report of the Dublin branch of the Satisman as sufficient answer to such an act beyond the decree issued by Prince Max as imperial Chancellor a fortnight ago, which stated merely that the Kaiser "has decided to renounce the throne." No communication notifying a formal act of abdication has since been made by the new Berlin Government; no abdication document bearing the Royal and Imperial signature is known to exist. William of Hohenzollern has been aptly described by a British diplomatic official as "a monarch temporarily resident abroad who is waiting for something to turn up—an Imperial Micawber."

Towards the ex-Kaiser in this anomalous position the Dutch Government conceives itself to have no duty beyond that of "seeing that the person in question is gailty of no conduct which would render the hospitality asked for injurious to the interests of the country." It does not trouble to define whether it would regard as injurious to the interests of Holland conduct aiming at his residence in Holland gone outside the park to make the contraction in opposition the Dutch Government conceives itself to have no duty beyond that of "seeing that the person in question is gailty of no conduct which would render the hospitality asked for injurious to the interests of Holland conduct aiming at his residence in Holland gone outside the park.

LETTER FROM SIR HORACE PLUNKETT.

PLUNKETT.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

She,—Ireland, ground between the upper and the nether milistones of the Northern and the Southern Sine Fein, has sunk to the depths of political himiliation.—In the interchange of confidences between, he two leaders of the most powerful Coalition that has ever held the reine of government in these islands, her doom has been pronounced. Only to a small corner of our country are the principles for which the Allies fought to be applied. For the rest of us, our behaviour has been such that we are beyond the pale. We are, however, told that, if we conduct ourselves with ether decorum that the Viceroy can give us a certificate of good conduct, we may, at some indefinite period, be rewarded—with the partition of our country.

The stupefaction of my countrymen at this amazing announcement will not be lessened by the cynnesm of its explanation. "The situation in regard to Ireland," we are told, "is governed by two fundamental "acts. The first is the Act on the -nature Book, which should be seen W. SEALE, D DAY. JAN. 2n
